The National Conference.

GRAND RAPIDS, June 8, '96.

EDITOR LEADER:—Saturday the Grand Rapids Police and Fire Department were out for a half holiday and parade. I counted 60 policemen and 108 firemen in line, with over 30 different vehicles connected with the fire department, steam fire engines, chemical engines, hose wagons, hook and ladder wagons. During the parade an alarm was turned in and three teams made a run, a steam fire engine, chemical engine and hook and ladder wagon. This was no better than we see in Marietta occasionally, only more teams and more noise.

Yesterday twenty-three pulpits in the city were filled by Conference people. A glance at the list shows a number of names of National reputation. Among others Rev. Frances Peabody, of Harvard University, and Rev. Dr. Charles R. Anderson, of Chicago University.

The Michigan system of child-saving is known as the State School system. They gather all the dependent children into one institution at Coldwater and keep them there until they can be placed out in families. In connection with the school the law provides for a State agent and one agent in each county, who have charge of the placing out of the children. These agents go and visit the children in their foster homes and report to the State School Superintendent. The average length of time a child is detained in the school is eighteen months. They never place out a child until the county agent, in the county where the child is to be placed, has first visited the proposed home and made a report as to the advisability of letting the child go into the family. The county agent visits the child from year to year and keeps a watchful care over it until it becomes of age. There are some advantages in this over the Ohio system. The great objection is that in a populous State like Ohio it would place the relief too far away and make it too difficult to get a dependent child into the State school, and meanwhile the child would have to go to the County Infirmary while waiting for the routine of the law to obtain admission for it to the State Institution. Then, again, in a great State like Ohio such a central institution would be over crowded. There would be so many little children in one mass that the proper personal attention to their training could not be given, and then they would be subjected to all the evils coming from the assembly and massing of large numbers in one institution. Our County system brings relief to the very door of poverty. We say, no child shall go to the poor house, nor shall any suffer from want of proper care. The Trustees of any township in Ohio can take a dependent child and in twenty-four hours or even less time than that, place it within the sheltering arms of a Children's Home. If our Children's Homes had the Michigan system of State supervision with State and County agents, it would be the best in the world. The county agents in Michigan get $100 per year and are appointed by the Governor and are usually ex-members of the Legislature.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Callouette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it. Got a free trial at W. H. Styer's Drug Store."

In the advancement of medical science, the kidneys, being almost the organs of the greatest importance to human health, have not been neglected, and in placing before you such a cure as Doan's Kidney Pills, the proprietors recognize how far so many statements of the makers of similar preparations have fallen short of their claims, being convinced that no remedy for kidney complaints in existence equals Doan's Kidney Pills for such ailments; strengthened in these convictions by letters that are daily received of the work they are doing for mankind's benefit, old backs and young backs are being constantly freed from never ceasing aches, and many a lame and shattered one, stooped and contracted, is strengthened, invigorated and infused with new life. With such a medicine, an offer of this kind can be made without hesitancy, for while we lose the box we give to you, we make a friend that assists us in the sale of many others.
